

Artificial Intelligence Public Opinion Survey

Detailed Consent Form and Information Sheet

General Information

Welcome. We are researchers at the University of Oxford, the University of Pennsylvania, and Cornell University conducting a study of the public's opinions on artificial intelligence and are interested in your thoughts and beliefs on the topic.

Our estimated median (average) time for completing this survey is 17 minutes.

Do I have to take part?

Please note that your participation is voluntary. You may ask questions about the study before deciding to take part by contacting Baobao Zhang at bz377@cornell.edu. You may withdraw at any point during the questionnaire for any reason.

How will your data be used?

We will use all reasonable measures to keep your data confidential. Your data will be stored in password protected cloud-based accounts and may be used in academic publications. Your IP address will not be stored.

Research data will be stored for a minimum of five years after publication or public release. Any data that we share outside of this research group will be anonymized so that you cannot be identified. Such anonymized data may be shared on Harvard Dataverse to allow the research community to reproduce the results.

The data that we collect from you may be transferred to and stored or processed at, a destination outside the European Economic Area ("EEA"). By submitting your personal data, you agree to this transfer, storing or processing.

Who will have access to your data?

The University of Oxford, the University of Pennsylvania, and Cornell University are the controllers with respect to your personal data, and as such will determine how your personal data is used in the study. Research is a task that we perform in the public interest. Further information about your rights with respect to your personal data is available from <http://www.admin.ox.ac.uk/councilsec/compliance/gdpr/individualrights/>.

Your information may be shared with research assistants at Cornell University, the University of Oxford, and the University of Pennsylvania who are working on this project.

We would like your permission to use your anonymized data in future studies and to share data with other researchers (e.g., in online databases). Any personal information that could identify you will be removed or changed before files are shared with other researchers or results are made public. Responsible members of the University of Oxford, the University of Pennsylvania, and Cornell University may be given access to data for monitoring and/or audit of the study to ensure we are complying with guidelines, or as otherwise required by law.

This survey is a joint project between the following principal investigators:

Are there any risks in taking part?

There are no physical or psychological risks in taking part in this study. As noted above, we will use all reasonable measures to keep your data confidential and secure.

What if there is a problem?

If you have a concern about any aspect of this project, please speak to the researcher Baobao Zhang at bz377@cornell.edu, who will do their best to answer your query. The researcher should acknowledge your concern within 10 working days and give you an indication of how they intend to deal with it.

If you remain unhappy or wish to make a formal complaint, please contact the relevant Chair of the Research Ethics Committee at the University of Oxford:

Chair, Oxford Tropical Research Ethics Committee Ethics Committee; Email: oxtrece@admin.ox.ac.uk; Address: Research Services, University of Oxford, Wellington Square, Oxford OX1 2JD

The Chair will seek to resolve the matter in a reasonably expeditious manner.

Please note that you may only participate in this survey if you are 18 years of age or over.
